

A Gift

It was Mia's birthday. She was feeling unhappy. No one had wished her a happy birthday. She went home. The kitchen was in disorder. It was a real mess. She couldn't believe it. It was unlikely. But, there was a present. It was from her baby brother. He had wrapped it. It was uneven. She didn't care. He wanted her to open it. Mia untied the ribbon. She tried to unwrap it, but the paper was stuck. She felt a little discouraged. Then, she ripped it. It came unstuck. She saw the gift. This was unreal! Her little brother gave her just what she wanted. He smiled at her. She gave him a big hug. Mia was not unhappy any more.

