

Written by Lisa Webber
Illustrated by C.Johnson 2008
www.cjohnson.myexpose.com

The Ticket

Pam was riding her bike near her house. She looked down and saw something on the sidewalk. Pam stopped her bike and got off. She picked up the paper. It was a ticket. The ticket was for a play that night at the high school. Pam read the ticket. It said that two people could go using one ticket. Pam put the ticket in her backpack. She rode over to Jill's house. Pam knocked on Jill's door. Jill opened the door. Pam invited Jill to the play. The girls were excited about the play. When it was time, they rode their bikes to the high school. Pam showed the ticket at the door. The girls found seats. The play started. It was not good. The actors kept forgetting their lines. Pam and Jill left the play. On the way home, Pam fell off her bike. She scraped her hand. Jill wrapped Pam's hand in a scarf. The girls thought it was going to be such a fun night, but it had turned into a real wreck. The girls got on their bikes and rode back home.

