

Hank's Prank

Hank drove a tank. He parked in front of a bank. He walked into the bank. He was planning on pulling a prank. He took a blank form. He gave it to the banker. While he waited, he drank some water. The banker, Frank, didn't know what to do. He sank down in his chair. He talked to Hank. Frank told Hank that he could not do anything with a blank form. Hank thanked Frank and left. He got back in his tank and drove away. Hank thought it would be funny to give Frank a blank form. But it was not so funny. It was not such a good prank after all.

